

Wind Patterns

Study the map titled Wind Patterns on page 56 of your textbook. Then visit the website directly under the link to this assignment on the “Instruction” page of our class website. You can also go to this link here, but you’ll have to type it in:

<http://earth.nullschool.net/#current/wind/isobaric/1000hPa/orthographic=51.04,30.52,348>

This website is completely interactive, so you can move the globe around to see other areas of the world. What areas seem to be the same on both maps? What areas have different wind patterns? In which direction are the winds blowing in Arkansas, according to the website? Lastly, can you find the Mississippi River on the website? How so? E-Mail your answers to me before the start of your next class.
